Dear Parents,

16th December 2025

Appropriate Communication By Parents Around School

Over the last year I have written to parents on a couple of occasions to ask that any communication between parents and staff, as well as between different parents themselves, is conducted in an appropriately courteous manner.

Unfortunately, I am now writing to all parents to insist that parents do not approach, try to discuss or reprimand any other child, either on the school playground or whilst walking to or from school.

I am aware of a couple of occasions when this has happened in the last 12 months. I am sure that everyone would agree that a parent approaching a child or children on their own to try and discuss a 'perceived issue' is not acceptable. As you can imagine, it can be highly upsetting for the child or children who are approached, as well as causing a lot of worry and anger for the parents of the child/children that have been approached.

As is the case in all schools, if any parents have a concern about another child, they should discuss this with their child's class teacher or indeed myself. Following this communication, facts can be investigated and children and adults spoken to appropriately and professionally by school staff.

It is very important that parents support us with this request.

Yours sincerely

Nick Huxley
